

initiated the opportunity for me to present at the American Academy of Underwater Sciences (AAUS) annual symposium (see Figure 1).

Figure 1. Charmaine Robinson presenting “An Interdisciplinary Investigation of Cold-Water Diver Manual Dexterity in Southeast Alaska” at the American Academy of Underwater Sciences annual symposium in March 2022.

My presentation generated several questions from the audience, as well as discussions during the break afterwards. Possible future collaborations and research funding opportunities were discussed with various individuals representing different institutions, including University of California Santa Cruz, Hoonah Indian Association (HIA), California State University Monterey