

- Tuition and research revenue – two critical sources of funding – will drop as a result of lower enrollment and fewer academic programs.
- A cut of this magnitude, will necessitate deep cuts that will impact every campus, program and aspect of our mission – education, research, community service.
- UA leads the world in Arctic research and built an international reputation that attracts faculty, students and investment. However, we operate in a highly mobile, international market for both talent and resources. Talent follows capital.
- There are 1,200 fewer people working at UA than there were just four years ago. This budget will likely result in the loss of an additional 1,300 staff and faculty.
- Alaska has the lowest college going rate in the nation. UA provides access and opportunity to every Alaskan through our network of community campuses.
